

The animal companions we share our lives with can touch our hearts like nothing else.

An original oil portrait of your pet is a wonderful way to remember those special ones we have lost and to treasure those that are still with us. A commissioned pet portrait can be a unique gift that will be treasured for generations to come or given as a memorial to help the heart heal.

Peggy J. Krizak

With Peggy's love of animals, passion for painting, as well as years of experience, you can be assured of museum quality artwork with every portrait she paints.

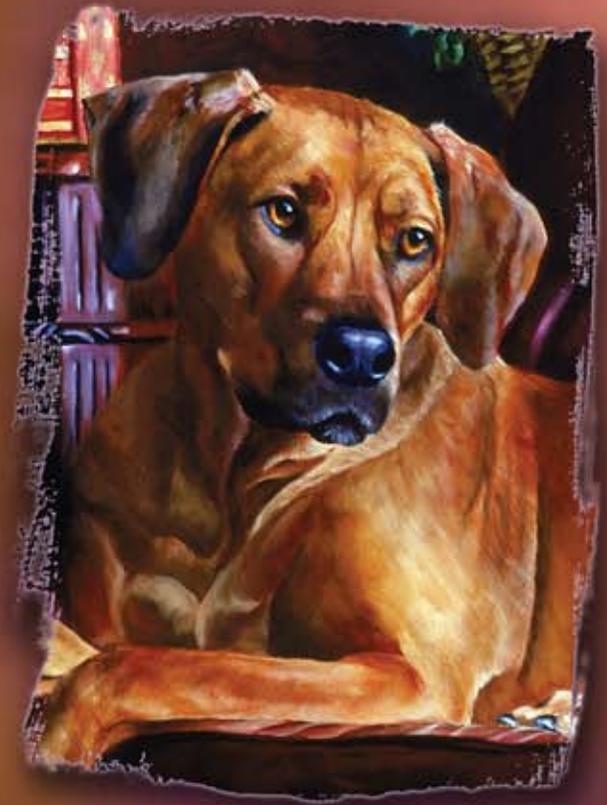

Over 300 portraits have been commissioned and hold a place of honor in homes and hearts across the country.

Peggy Krizak is a national and international artist, as well as one of "The Bradford Exchange" artists of the collector's plates since 2005. She is an accomplished painter, not limiting herself to only animals, but also painting portraits of people. Whether the paintings are of your dog, cat, bird, or family member, you can be assured that you will cherish your work of art forever.

Your pet's portrait is painted with the old world style of the Venetian oil technique. This technique used by the Old Masters from Carravagio to Rubens is a system of layering paint in order to achieve the luminosity and depth we so love in those classic paintings. Each layer must dry before the next is applied, extending the time element for this style of painting.

Capture the unconditional love.

My deep love of animals and passion for painting, allows me to capture the personality of your beloved friend. I enjoy meeting your pet in person and doing some color sketches, but will also paint from a photograph. The best way to keep a cherished memory of your companion is an original oil painting.
